

1 DAVID A. ROSENFELD, Bar No. 058163
 2 CAREN P. SENCER, Bar No. 233488
 3 WEINBERG, ROGER & ROSENFELD
 4 A Professional Corporation
 5 1001 Marina Village Parkway, Suite 200
 6 Alameda, California 94501-1091
 7 Telephone 510.337.1001
 8 Fax 510.337.1023

FILED
ALAMEDA COUNTY

DEC 15 2009

CLERK OF THE SUPERIOR COURT
 By CB Pitts Deputy

6 Attorneys for Plaintiffs
 7 LAVON GODFREY and GARY GILBERT

8 IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA
 9 IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF ALAMEDA

11 LAVON GODFREY and GARY GILBERT, on ) 12 behalf of themselves and all others similarly ) 13 situated, )
 14 Plaintiffs, )
 15 v. )
 16 OAKLAND PORT SERVICES CORP. d/b/a )
 17 AB TRUCKING, and DOES 1 through 20, )
 18 inclusive, )
 19 Defendants. )

Case No. RG 08-379099
 CLASS ACTION
 PLAINTIFFS' MEMORANDUM OF
 POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT OF MOTION FOR CLASS
 CERTIFICATION
 Date:
 Time:
 Dept: 20
 Judge: Robert Freedman
 Reservation No. 1006715

TABLE OF CONTENTS

1

2 I. INTRODUCTION AND PROPOSED CLASSES ..... 1

3 II. RELEVANT FACTS ..... 2

4 III. APPLICABLE STATE WAGE AND HOUR PROVISIONS..... 3

5 A. California Law Requires Employers To Pay Employees For Any And All Hours

6 Worked ..... 3

7 1. All Hours Worked ..... 3

8 2. Misclassified Or No Wages Received Class ..... 3

9 B. California And Municipal Law Require Employers To Pay Employees At The

10 Appropriate Wage Rate ..... 5

11 1. The Overtime Class ..... 5

12 2. The Living Wage Class ..... 7

13 C. California Law Requires Employers To Provide Employees With Meal Periods And

14 Paid Rest Breaks ..... 8

15 1. Certification Of The Meal And Rest Period Class Is Not Affected By Brinker-

16 Like Analysis..... 9

17 IV. ANALYSIS ..... 10

18 A. Class Certification Is Superior ..... 10

19 B. This Case Satisfies All The Requirements For Class Certification ..... 12

20 1. The Putative Class Is Ascertainable And Numerous. .... 13

21 2. Common Questions Of Law And Fact Predominate..... 13

22 a) As Drivers Worked Under The Same Institutional Practices, Supervision And

23 Management Control, Common Questions Of Fact Predominate..... 14

24 b) Questions Of Law Predominate Over Individual Questions ..... 16

25 c) This Case Involves Common Remedial Issues; Individualized Damage

26 Calculations Do Not Defeat Class Certification ..... 17

27 3. Plaintiffs' Claims Are Typical Of The Proposed Class Members' Claims..... 18

28 4. Plaintiffs And Their Counsel Will Fairly And Adequately Represent The Putative

Class ..... 20

V. CONCLUSION ..... 20

TABLE OF AUTHORITIES

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

FEDERAL CASES

Brown v. Federal Express Corp.
(C.D. Cal. 2008) 249 F.R.D. 580 ..... 16

Agsalud v. Pony Express Courier Corp. of Am.
(9th Cir. 1987) 833 F.2d 809 ..... 7

Keegan v. Ruppert,
(S.D.N.Y. 1943) 2 F.R.D. 8 ..... 7

Overnite Transp. Co. v. Tianti
(2d Cir. 1991) 926 F.2d 220 ..... 7

Pettis Moving Co. v. Roberts
(2d Cir. 1986) 784 F.2d 439 ..... 7

Reich v. American Driver Serv.
(9th Cir. 1994) 33 F.3d 1153 ..... 6

Walling v. Silver Fleet Motor Express
(W.D. Ky. 1946) 67 F.Supp. 846 ..... 7

Watkins v. Ameripride
(9th Cir. 2004) 375 F.3d 821 ..... 7

White v. Starbucks Corp.
(N.D.Cal.2007) 497 F.Supp.2d 1080 ..... 16

Williams v. W.M.A. Transit Co.
(D.C. Cir. 1972) 472 F.2d 1258 ..... 7

STATE CASES

Save-On Drug stores, Inc. v. Superior Court
(2004) 34 Cal.4th 319, 340 ..... passim

Aguiar v. Cintas Corp. No. 2
(2006) 144 Cal.App.4th 121 ..... 12

Arias v. Superior Court
(2009) 46 Cal.4th 969 ..... 12

B.W.I. Custom Kitchen v. Owens-Illinois, Inc.
(1987) 191 Cal.App.3d 1341 ..... 18

Bell v. Farmers Insurance Exchange
(2004) 115 Cal.App.4th 715 ..... 11, 12, 14, 18

1 Brinker Restaurant Corp. v. Superior Court
(2008) 165 Cal.App.4th 25..... 9

2

3 Bufile v. Dollar Financial Group, Inc.
(2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 1193..... 12

4 Cal Pak Delivery, Inc. v. United Parcel Serv.
(1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 1..... 20

5

6 Cicairos v. Summit Logistics, Inc.
(2005) 133 Cal.App.4th 949..... 10, 16, 17

7 Classen v. Weller
(1983) 145 Cal.App.3d 27..... 14, 18, 20

8

9 Collins v. Roca
(1972) 7 Cal.3d 232..... 13

10 Cortez v. Purolator Air Filtration Products Co.
(2000) 23 Cal.4th 163..... 8

11

12 Daar v. Yellow Cab Co.
(1967) 67 Cal.2d 695..... 12

13 Earley v. Superior Court
(2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 1420..... 12

14

15 Estrada v. FedEx Ground Package System, Inc.
(2007) 154 Cal.App.4th 1..... 12

16 Fireside Bank v. Superior Court
(2007) 40 Cal.4th 1069..... 18, 19

17

18 Gentry v. Superior Court
(2007) 42 Cal.4th 443..... 11, 12

19 Ghazaryan v. Diva Limousine, LTD.
(2009) 169 Cal.App.4th 1524..... 11, 12, 16

20

21 Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co.
(2000) 23 Cal.4th 429..... 12

22 Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Superior Court
(2003) 29 Cal.4th 1096..... 13

23

24 Los Angeles Fire & Police Protective League v. City of Los Angeles
(1972) 23 Cal.App.3d 67..... 13

25 Madera Police Officers Assn. v. City of Madera
(1984) 36 Cal.3d 403..... 12

26

27 McGhee v. Bank of America
(1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 442..... 20

1	Medrazo v. Honda of North Hollywood (2008) 166 Cal.App.4th 89.....	14, 18
2
3	Morillion v. Royal Packing Co. (2000) 22 Cal.4th 575.....	4, 12
4	Murphy v. Kenneth Cole Productions, Inc. (2007) 40 Cal.4th 1094.....	8, 9
5
6	Parris v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal.App.4th 285.....	12
7	Prince v. CLS Transportation, Inc. (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 1320.....	13
8
9	Reyes v. Board of Supervisors (1987) 196 Cal.App.3d 1263.....	13
10	Richmond v. Dart Industries, Inc. (1981) 29 Cal.3d 462.....	12, 18, 19
11
12	Rose v. City of Hayward (1981) 126 Cal.App.3d 926.....	13, 16
13	Stephens v. Montgomery Ward (1987) 193 Cal.App.3d 411.....	12, 14
14
15	Vasquez v. Superior Court (Karp) (1971) 4 Cal.3d 800.....	11, 13, 14, 18
16	Washington Mutual Bank v. Superior Court (Briseno) (2001) 24 Cal.4th 906.....	14
17
18	Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 224.....	20
19	FEDERAL STATUTES
20	29 U.S.C. § 213(b)(1).....	5
21	49 U.S.C. § 31131 et seq.....	5
22	FEDERAL REGULATIONS
23	29 C.F.R. § 782.2.....	6, 7
24	29 C.F.R. § 782.3(b).....	7
25	29 C.F.R. § 785.11.....	4
26	29 C.F.R. § 785.13.....	4
27	49 C.F.R. §395.1-.13.....	7
28

1	STATE STATUTES
2	Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 .....	8
3	Code of Civil Procedure section 382.....	1, 12, 13, 20
4	Labor Code § 226.7(b) .....	8, 9
5	Labor Code § 510.....	3, 5
6	Labor Code § 512(a) .....	8
7	Labor Code sections 1194.....	3, 4
8	Labor Code sections 1194.2.....	4
9	STATE REGULATIONS
10	8 California Code of Regulations 11090 (“IWC Wage Order 9”) .....	passim
11	OTHER AUTHORITIES
12	Dep't of Labor and Indus. of the State of Wash. v. Common Carriers, Inc.
13	(1988) 111 Wash.2d 586 .....	7
14	Fair Labor Standards Act 336 (Ellen C. Kearns ed., BNA 1999).....	6, 7
15	Oakland Municipal Code section 2.28 .....	8

16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28

1 I. INTRODUCTION AND PROPOSED CLASSES

2 Plaintiffs Lavon Godfrey and Gary Gilbert are truck drivers formerly employed by
3 Defendant Oakland Port Services Corp., d/b/a AB Trucking (“Defendant,” “OPS” or “AB
4 Trucking”), a transportation corporation doing business in California, who have brought this wage
5 and hour action on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated. Plaintiffs’ claims are 6 based upon practices that were generally applied to Defendant’s driver employees, and therefore,
7 Plaintiffs share a clear community of interest with the classes of workers proposed in this motion.
8 Plaintiffs seek to represent a class in excess of fifty members who seek wages, restitution,
9 penalties, and an injunction requiring AB Trucking to abide by California and municipal law. The 10 inquiries at the heart of this lawsuit are uniform for all members of the proposed class, including 11 the class representatives themselves. Five classes are readily defined as follows:

12 (1) The All Hours Worked Class<sup>1</sup>

13 All drivers employed by Defendant during the statutory period who were not
14 paid for all hours worked in any work week.

15 (2) The Misclassified Employee or No Wages Received Class

16 All drivers employed by Defendant during the statutory period who were not
17 paid for any hours worked in any work week.

18 (3) The Overtime Class

19 All drivers employed by Defendant during the statutory period who were not 20 paid for hours worked over eight (8) in a day and/or forty (40) in a week at an overtime rate of time-and-one-half the regular rate.

21 (4) The Living Wage Class

22 All drivers employed by Defendant during the statutory period who were 23 paid less than the Oakland Living Wage for any hour(s) worked.

24 (5) The Meal and Rest Period Class

25 All drivers employed by Defendant during the statutory period who were not
26 provided rest breaks and/or meal periods as required by California law.

27 Plaintiffs’ claims are exceptionally well-suited for determination on a class action basis and they satisfy each of the requirements pursuant to Code of Civil Procedure section 382. Resolution

28 <sup>1</sup> The statutory period (“statutory period”) is March 1, 2004 through the present.

1 through the class action device would be a substantial benefit to the court and to the parties, as it
2 would be the most time and cost efficient way to resolve the issues. Plaintiffs hereby request the 3 Court grant class certification on all claims.

4 II. RELEVANT FACTS

5 Defendant AB Trucking is a drayage company employing drivers who primarily drive
6 trucks to be loaded and unloaded within the Port of Oakland. Defendant's yard is located within 7 the "Port area." Driving time from the yard to the entrance of the Port is estimated to take between 8 5 and 15 minutes. Drivers also may be assigned trips throughout California. Due to Defendant's
9 uniform lack of a policy on meal and rest periods, drivers are not paid for all hours worked. All
10 drivers are commonly subject to Defendant's lack of a written meal and rest period policy. (See 11 Declaration of Lisl R. Duncan ("Duncan Decl.")<sup>2</sup>, Exh. B at 57:12-17; 58:16-59:12; 116:13-118:8; 12 118:12-25.) Drivers eat meals in the trucks while performing work functions. Nonetheless, under 13 Defendant's single payroll system, drivers suffer thirty (30) minute deductions from wages for 14 meal periods not taken. (See Exh. B at 171:24-173:7; 180:4-21; 189:6-13.) There is an automatic
15 deduction of sixty (60) minutes of pay from each driver's pay per day for the meal periods. (See 16 Exh. C at 35:10-36:17; 60:8-61:6; Exh. B at Exh. 2, Exh. 16) This automatic deduction occurs
17 within the payroll process and is applied to all drivers. (See Exh. C at 35:10-36:17; 60:8-61:6; 18 Exh. D at 176:6-177:11.) Defendant has a policy of not paying overtime to its drivers.
19 Furthermore, Defendant pays its drivers at a rate less than the Oakland Living Wage rate. (See 20 Exh. C at 68:2-5.) In addition, Defendant suffers and permits drivers it classifies as "trainees" to 21 work; however these "trainees" are not paid at all for the work they perform and are not subject to 22 a learner, or any other lesser, rate. (See Exh. E at 10:6-7.) Moreover, while trainees perform
23 functions performed by drivers classified as employees, they do not receive any cognizable
24 training.<sup>3</sup> These so-called trainees are not provided compensation as required by law and are
25 misclassified as non-employees. (See Exh. C at 22:1-23:19.)

26
27 <sup>2</sup> All exhibits, unless otherwise noted, are to the declaration of Ms. Duncan.

28 <sup>3</sup> Defendant will argue job specific training occurred, such as trainings of locations inside the Port. On-the-job training, however, does not negate the employment relationship because the Industrial Welfare Commission Wage

1                                   III. APPLICABLE STATE WAGE AND HOUR PROVISIONS

2   A. CALIFORNIA LAW REQUIRES EMPLOYERS TO PAY EMPLOYEES FOR ANY
3   AND ALL HOURS WORKED

4       1. All Hours Worked

5       California Labor Code (“Labor Code”) section 510 and IWC Wage Order 9, which governs
6       the transportation industry, require employers to pay each employee not less than the applicable
7       minimum wage for all hours worked in the payroll period. Failure to provide meal and rest periods
8       or to pay compensation in lieu of such breaks, creates a condition where employees do not receive
9       minimum compensation for all hours worked. When an employee works instead of taking a meal
10      or rest period, this is time worked for which the employee must be compensated. (See IWC Wage 11      Order 9(3); Labor Code § 510.) The employer fails to pay at least minimum compensation for all 12      hours worked when employees miss meal or rest periods yet have wages deducted.

13             Here, all drivers employed in the statutory period, including those who were misclassified,
14      were not provided meal and rest periods as required by law. Drivers are told by Defendant not to 15      take rest breaks away from their vehicles and to eat meals inside the vehicles. (See Exh. D at 16      157:7-158:11.) Much of the work performed by drivers consists of lining up to enter and exit
17      terminals at the Port of Oakland. As a result, drivers cannot take breaks, because they may lose
18      their place in the queue and there is no area to legally and safely pull the truck over. It is common 19      practice for drivers to eat in their trucks while waiting in queues to enter Port terminals. (See Exh.
20      D at 157:7-158:11; 159:9-160:15; 191:15-193:4; 193:11-14.)

21             Ms. Godfrey’s claims are representative of those class members who Defendant failed to 22      pay for all hours worked in violation of state and municipal law.

23       2. Misclassified or No Wages Received Class

24             IWC Wage Order 9(4) and Labor Code section 1194 require an employer to provide
25      compensation for all hours worked. AB Trucking alleges certain employees, including Mr.
26      Gilbert, were hired by AB Trucking not as employees, but as “trainees” and thus are not entitled to

27      

---

28      Orders define learners as “employees.” (See Industrial Welfare Commission (“IWC”) Wage Order No. 9, section 4, subsection a, codified at 8 California Code of Regulations 11090.)

1 any wages. An individual is an employee of an employer any time he or she is engaged in work
2 for the benefit of the employer.<sup>4</sup> The facts of the situation determine the relationship, regardless of
3 either party's intent to characterize the relationship as one other than an employment relationship.
4 All time an employee is suffered or permitted to be worked must be compensated at no less than 5 the state minimum wage.<sup>5</sup>

6 Here, "trainees" are suffered or permitted to work, but Defendant does not compensate
7 these drivers for any hours at any wage rate. Not only are trainees suffered and permitted to work,
8 performing functions that other compensated drivers perform, but trainees do not receive any non
9 job-specific training. Defendant has no program or organized action for trainees, and it has no AB
10 Trucking training manuals or materials. (See Exh. B at 144:13-21; 146:20-22; Duncan Decl. ¶ 8.)
11 Trainees do, however, perform the job functions of employee drivers, regardless of the fact that 12 they are accompanied by an employee driver while performing these functions.

13 Trainees were not paid for any hours they were suffered or permitted to work and were 14 misclassified. (See Exh. E at 10:6-7) Pursuant to Labor Code sections 1194 and 1194.2, an 15 employee receiving less than the legal minimum wage or the legal overtime compensation
16 applicable to the employee is entitled to recover the unpaid balance of the full amount.

17 Mr. Gilbert's claims are representative of those class members who are subject to meal and 18 rest period violations and Defendant's failure to pay for any hours worked as a result of 19 misclassification in violation of state and municipal law.

21 <sup>4</sup> IWC Wage Order 9(2)(H) defines "hours worked" as "the time during which an employee is subject to the control of
22 an employer, and includes all the time the employee is suffered or permitted to work, whether or not required to do
23 so": "The "suffered or permitted to work" language does not limit whether time spent "subject to the control of an
24 employer" is compensable." (See Morillion v. Royal Packing Co. ["Morillion"] (2000) 22 Cal.4th 575, 582.) Further,
25 the definition of "hours worked" is expanded by, rather than limited to, the time spent when an employee is "suffered 26 or permitted to work" . . . "Work not requested but suffered or permitted is work time. For example, an employee may voluntarily continue to work at the end of the shift. . . . The employer knows or has reason to believe that he is continuing to work and the time is working time. [Citations.]" (29 C.F.R. § 785.11 (1998).) "In all such cases it is the duty of the management to exercise its control and see that the work is not performed if it does not want it to be performed." (29 C.F.R. § 785.13 (1998).)" (Id. at pp. 584-585.)

27 <sup>5</sup> IWC Wage Order 9 allows for a learner rate of no less than 85% of the minimum wage for the first 160 hours of work
if the employee has no previous similar or related experience. As of January 1, 2008, this rate was $6.80 per hour.
(Available at http://www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/FAQ\_MinimumWage.htm) The Oakland Living Wage does not provide a
28 separate learner rate. (See Plaintiff's Request for Judicial Notice ("RJN") filed herewith as Exhibits 1 and 4.)

1 B. CALIFORNIA AND MUNICIPAL LAW REQUIRE EMPLOYERS TO PAY
2 EMPLOYEES AT THE APPROPRIATE WAGE RATE

3 1. The Overtime Class

4 Labor Code section 510 and IWC Wage Order 9(3) provide that employees shall be
5 compensated at the rate of one and one-half times such employee's regular rate of pay for hours
6 worked beyond eight (8) in a workday and forty (40) in a week. AB Trucking's payroll records for 7 the statutory period show that despite working more than 40 hours in a week, the employees never 8 received more than the regular rate for any hours worked. (See Exh. B at Exh. 2-4.) The 9 depositions of AB Trucking's two persons most knowledgeable, confirm that overtime
10 compensation at the rate of 1 ½ times the regular rate was not paid to drivers. (See Exh. B at 11 119:20-120:4; Exh. C at 19:10-15.)

12 Further, if employees miss a meal and/or rest period in a full work shift such that it causes
13 their work shifts to extend past eight hours, the employer is required to compensate the employees
14 for the hours worked in excess of eight hours, at the overtime rate. For example, if an employee
15 works through her meal period, but the employer assumes a meal period has been taken and thus
16 does not pay the employee for this thirty minutes of time worked, the employer has failed to pay
17 the employee for all time worked. Assuming a scheduled 8 ½ hour day (if there was a ½ hour 18 lunch), the employee must be compensated for the thirty minutes worked but not compensated at 19 an overtime rate. (Labor Code § 510.)

20 The Motor Carrier Act ("MCA")<sup>6</sup> creates an exemption to the Fair Labor Standards Act
21 ("FLSA") requirement to pay overtime if the employee is a driver regulated by the Department of 22 Transportation ("DOT"). The requirement to pay time and one-half to all employees working 23 beyond 40 hours in a work week, does not apply to any employee for whom the Secretary of 24 Transportation ("Secretary of DOT") has the power to establish maximum hours of service, this
25 constitutes the MCA exception. (See 29 U.S.C. § 213(b)(1).) The DOT exemption to the FLSA
26 has limitations including two applicable in this situation. First, there is an exception to this
27

28 <sup>6</sup> Codified at 49 U.S.C. § 31131, et seq.

1 exemption for a category of drivers referred to as "spotters," and, second, overtime must be paid in
2 California if the DOT is not actually regulating the drivers; if the DOT has not actually taken
3 jurisdiction over the drivers, then they fall under regular California overtime law as California law
4 is more protective of workers' rights.

5 The Secretary of Transportation can take jurisdiction over drivers as allowed for under the 6 MCA. Even if a driver falls under the Secretary of DOT's jurisdiction, for that driver to be
7 exempt, it must also be shown that the driver is engaged in activities that directly affect the 8 operational safety of motor vehicles and that those vehicles transport property in interstate
9 commerce. (See 29 C.F.R. § 782.2) Drivers are engaged in activities of a character affecting 10 safety so as to be subject to the power of the Secretary of DOT, if the drivers are "required to 11 complete U.S. Department of Transportation logs regarding the time spent driving, pass DOT
12 written and driving tests, complete various DOT forms, and pass a DOT physical and drug test."
13 (Fair Labor Standards Act 336 (Ellen C. Kearns ed., BNA 1999).) Because California law is more
14 protective, for a California driver to be exempt, she must "actually be engaged in performing tasks
15 that affect the safety of vehicles operating in interstate commerce" such that the Secretary of 16 Transportation has taken jurisdiction. The exemption applies to any week in which those exempt
17 tasks are performed. (Reich v. American Driver Serv. (9th Cir. 1994) 33 F.3d 1153.)

18 First, the MCA exemption does not apply here because Defendant did not adhere to DOT
19 standards. No driver, including those making out of state deliveries are required by Defendant to 20 maintain DOT log books or adhere to other DOT standards including hours of service, DOT
21 physicals or the like. (See Exh. B at 33:12-35:3.) Further, there is no evidence that the drivers are 22 subject to random drug testing, pre-employment physicals or any other DOT requirement. Mr.
23 Aboudi indicated in his deposition that the drivers did not have to keep logs because they work
24 within 100 miles of the facility but nonetheless, Defendant had the right, under the DOT
25 exemption, to not pay overtime. (See Exh. B at 33:12-35:3; 119:20-120:4.)

26 Secondly, even if the MCA applied here, then the "spotter" exception would apply. There
27 is a category of drivers engaged in interstate commerce who are not covered by the MCA or the

1 FLSA exemption. Known as "spotters" these individuals drive either (1) empty trucks up to docks
2 to be loaded or (2) loaded trucks to a location in or about the premises of the trucking terminal
3 where they will be picked up by another driver to be delivered to their ultimate destination are 4 generally not covered by the motor carrier exemption." (See Fair Labor Standards Act, supra, at p.
5 338; see 29 C.F.R. § 782.3(b); Keegan v. Ruppert (S.D.N.Y. 1943) 2 F.R.D. 8; but see Walling v.
6 Silver Fleet Motor Express (W.D. Ky. 1946) 67 F.Supp. 846.)

7 Lastly, because the drivers here are not actually regulated by the Secretary of 8 Transportation, the default is that California overtime law applies.<sup>7</sup> The FLSA exemption for 9 overtime applies if the Secretary of DOT could take jurisdiction over the driver. Under California
10 law, the exemption from overtime only applies if the Secretary of DOT actually takes jurisdiction
11 over the driver.<sup>8</sup>

12 Here, the Secretary of DOT has not taken jurisdiction over the drivers, the Employer does 13 not consider the drivers to be under DOT jurisdiction (as evidenced above), and the drivers are 14 most likely spotters. Under any of these formulations, the drivers are entitled to overtime at one
15 and one-half times the regular rate.

16 2. The Living Wage Class

17 Plaintiffs also plead failure to abide by the Oakland Living Wage.<sup>9</sup> Oakland City Charter
18

19
20 <sup>7</sup> Under California law, if a truck is less than 10,000 lbs, then the federal exemption does not apply and overtime is due
21 when sufficient hours are worked (over 8 hours in a day and/or 40 hours in a workweek). (See IWC Wage Order 9.) If
22 the truck is more than 26,000 lbs, then the driver is subject to DOT regulations and is exempt from overtime under
23 both state and federal law. If a two-axle truck is less than 26,000 pounds but does not exceed 40 feet in length and 24 does not tow a trailer or semitrailer of more than 10,000 pounds, California overtime laws apply. (See 49 C.F.R.
25 §395.1-13; 13 C.C.R. §1200, et seq.)

26 <sup>8</sup> "California has the power to adopt a narrower exemption from its overtime laws than the Motor Carrier Act
27 exemption under the FLSA. Every appellate court to consider the question has concluded that state overtime laws are 28 not preempted by the Motor Carrier Act exemption under the FLSA. See Agsalud v. Pony Express Courier Corp. of
Am. (9th Cir. 1987) 833 F.2d 809, 810; see also Overnite Transp. Co. v. Tianti (2d Cir. 1991) 926 F.2d 220, 221-22;
Pettis Moving Co. v. Roberts (2d Cir. 1986) 784 F.2d 439, 441; Williams v. W.M.A. Transit Co. (D.C. Cir. 1972) 472
F.2d 1258, 1263; Dep't of Labor and Indus. of the State of Wash. v. Common Carriers, Inc. (1988) 111 Wash.2d 586.
Because there is no federal preemption, the words "are regulated" in Wage Order 9 may be read (so far as federal law is concerned) to mean that the Motor Carrier Act exemption applies to California overtime laws only to the extent that the Secretary actually regulates the hours of the drivers in question." Watkins v. Ameripride (9th Cir. 2004) 375 F.3d 821, 830.

<sup>9</sup> See Plaintiff's RJN at Exhibits 1, 3 and 4 filed herewith.

1 section 728 requires that all Port-Assisted Businesses provide compensation not less than the
2 Oakland Living Wage. The July 2007-June 2008 minimum compensation was $11.58 without
3 benefits and $10.07 with benefits according Oakland Municipal Code section 2.28. The current
4 minimum compensation is $12.45 without benefits and $10.83 with benefits. Under any of these
5 formulations, the drivers are entitled to overtime at 1 ½ times the regular rate. AB Trucking's
6 facility is located within the Port area on City property. (See Exh. B at 35:4-6.) AB Trucking's
7 payroll records for the statutory period show that drivers were paid less than the Oakland Living
8 Wage rate and that the vast majority of drivers did not receive health benefits. (See Exh. B at Exh.
9 2-4.)

10 C. CALIFORNIA LAW REQUIRES EMPLOYERS TO PROVIDE EMPLOYEES
11 WITH MEAL PERIODS AND PAID REST BREAKS

12 State law requires employers to provide employees with meal periods and paid rest breaks.
13 Employers must provide employees who work more than five hours in one day with at least a 30-
14 minute, off-duty meal period and an additional 30-minute meal period when employees work more
15 than 10 hours in one day. (Labor Code § 512(a); IWC Wage Order 9(11).) Furthermore, IWC
16 Wage Order 9(7) requires employers to record and retain accurate information with respect to each
17 employee, including information regarding employees' meal periods. (IWC Wage Order
18 9(7)(A)(3), (7)(C).)

19 The Labor Code and the IWC Wage Order require an employer to pay an employee one 20 hour of pay at the employee's regular rate as compensation for each workday that a meal period is 21 not provided. (Labor Code § 226.7(b); IWC Wage Order 9(11)(D).) The remedy provided by 22 Labor Code section 226.7 constitutes a wage or premium pay, and is subject to a three-year statute
23 of limitations. (Murphy v. Kenneth Cole Productions, Inc. (2007) 40 Cal.4th 1094.)<sup>10</sup>

24 In addition, IWC Wage Order 9(12), states that employers must authorize and permit
25 employees with a minimum of 10 minutes of rest for every four hours worked in a day, or any
26

27 <sup>10</sup> Plaintiffs also plead violation of the Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq., which extends the statute of limitations for 28 restitution, including wages, from 3 years to 4. (Cortez v. Purolator Air Filtration Products Co. (2000) 23 Cal.4th 163, 178-179.)

1 major fraction thereof. Rest breaks are counted towards hours worked and must be paid. (IWC
2 Wage Order 9(12)(A).) Where an employer fails to provide a required paid rest break, the 3 employer must pay the employee one hour of pay at the employee's regular rate of compensation
4 for each workday that the rest period is not provided. (Labor Code § 226.7(b); IWC Wage Order
5 9(12)(B).)

6 Under the terms of IWC Wage Order 9(11), employees are required to receive a ½ hour
7 unpaid, off-duty meal period during each eight (8) hour shift. Employees working beyond ten (10)
8 hours in a day are entitled to a second ½ hour unpaid, off-duty meal period. Under the terms of 9 IWC Wage Order 9(12), employees are entitled to two uninterrupted ten minute rest periods during 10 each eight hour shift. As noted above, this is a wage payment. (Murphy, supra at p. 1102-1115.)
11 Plaintiffs allege, on behalf of themselves and other drivers similarly situated, that AB Trucking
12 systematically failed to provide drivers employed at its facility at the Port of Oakland 30-minute,
13 off-duty meal periods and paid rest breaks. Plaintiff Godfrey was told by another driver employee
14 designated as responsible for her initial training, "Here we just eat on the go. We eat in our truck,
15 in line. We eat in our truck." (Exh. D at 157:23-4.) Mr. Aboudi's testimony and the documents
16 produced show no written policy on meals or rest periods and thus cannot support that any training
17 was given on meals and rests periods. Plaintiffs Godfrey and Gilbert are representative as to the 18 meal and rest period claims.

19 1. Certification of the Meal and Rest Period Class is not affected by Brinker-like
20 Analysis

21 Currently pending before the California Supreme Court is an appeal from Brinker
22 Restaurant Corp. v. Superior Court (2008) 165 Cal.App.4th 25. There are at least five issues on 23 appeal to the Supreme Court including questions on the timing of meal and rest periods and the 24 efforts the employer must use to provide meal and rest periods to employees. This appeal, which
25 results in the appellate decision being depublished, creates uncertainty as to certain meal and rest
26 period claims.

27 However, for certification of the proposed meal and rest period class, Brinker, and cases
28 following its analysis, do not prevent certification because the violation here is caused by the

1 Defendant's admitted scheduling practice. Plaintiffs and the class have been denied the
2 opportunity to take off-duty meal periods of at least 30 minutes, as required by law, nor are they
3 permitted paid rest periods as provided by law. (See Exh. D at 157:7-158:11, 159:9-160:15, 48:8-
4 10). Defendant has no policy on meal and rest periods, it gives no training on meal and rest breaks
5 and provides no enforcement of any policy on meal and rest periods. (See Exh. B at 57: 12-17,
6 58:16-59:12, 116:13-118:8, 118:12-25) Time keeping documents produced by AB Trucking
7 confirm deposition testimony of AB Trucking's person(s) most knowledgeable that Defendant
8 does not maintain records of when drivers take meal and rest periods. (See Exh. B, Exh. 2-4)
9 Instead, Defendant maintains a policy of automatically deducting one hour each day for a meal
10 period in its payroll records, regardless of the fact that it would have no corresponding record
11 showing that the employee actually received a one hour meal period. (See Exh. C at 35:10-36:17, 12 60:8-61:6; Exh. B at Exh. 2, 16; Exh. D at 198:20-199:5.) No assumption of meal periods taken
13 may be made. (Cicairos v. Summit Logistics, Inc. (2005) 133 Cal.App.4th 949 ["Cicairos"])
14 Defendant has failed to pay drivers for the time improperly deducted. (See Exh. B at Exh. 2-4.)
15 Missed meal and rest periods during this time period do not turn on the question of why the meal
16 and/or rest period was not taken; the fact is quite simply, the employer did not make those breaks
17 available as required by law. All employees in the statutory period were subjected to the same
18 treatment. Like the other classes, this proposed class meets all requirements for certification
19 purposes.

20 IV. ANALYSIS

21 A. CLASS CERTIFICATION IS SUPERIOR

22 Proceeding with this case as a class action allows drivers to collectively seek relief for 23 modest individual monetary claims based on largely identical facts and legal theories. Class
24 treatment will further judicial economy, sparing the Court "separate, duplicative proceedings
25 [with] the same or essentially the same arguments and evidence." (See Sav-On Drug Stores, Inc. v.
26 Super. Ct. ["Sav-On"] (2004) 34 Cal.4th 319, 340). The Supreme Court described the proper
27 considerations that guide class certification in California:

1 Many of the issues likely to be most vigorously contested in this dispute ...
2 are common ones. Absent class treatment, each individual plaintiff would
3 present in separate, duplicative proceedings the same or essentially the same
4 arguments and evidence, including expert testimony. The result would be a 5 multiplicity of trials conducted at enormous expense to both the judicial
6 system and the litigants. 'It would be neither efficient nor fair to anyone,
7 including defendants, to force multiple trials to hear the same evidence and
8 decide the same issues.' (Citation.)

9 (Id.)

10 The Supreme Court again stressed the value of class action litigation in adjudicating wage
11 and hour claims in Gentry v. Superior Court (2007) 42 Cal.4th 443 ("Gentry") because of the 12 importance of the class action device in assuring the effective enforcement of statutory policies.
13 (See Vasquez v. Superior Court (Karp) (1971) 4 Cal.3d 800, 808.) The court underscored the role 14 of the class action in benefiting not only the individual litigant, but "the public interest in the 15 enforcement of legal rights and statutory sanctions." (Bell v. Farmers Insurance Exchange (2004)
16 115 Cal.App.4th 715, 741.) In evaluating the importance of the class action device, the court held 17 that trial courts must consider "the modest size of the potential individual recovery, the potential
18 for retaliation against members of the class, the fact that absent members of the class may be ill
19 informed about their rights, and other real world obstacles to the vindication of class members'
20 right[s]." (Gentry, supra, at p. 463.) As the Court of Appeals recently observed, "it is no accident
21 that 'wage and hour disputes (and others in the same general class) routinely proceed as class
22 actions.' [Citation.]" (Ghazaryan v. Diva Limousine, LTD. (2009) 169 Cal.App.4th 1524, 1538.)
23 "By establishing a technique whereby the claims of many individuals can be resolved at the same
24 time, the class suit both eliminates the possibility of repetitious litigation and provides small 25 claimants with a method of obtaining redress for claims which would otherwise be too small to 26 warrant individual litigation." (Sav-On, supra, at p. 340.)

27 All these factors weigh in favor of class certification in this case. The recovery of any 28 single driver would be dwarfed by the costs of litigation from discovery through trial. Here, the wrong-doing by the employer is particularly egregious as it denied workers breaks, day in and day out, totaling thousands of breaks. Not only do drivers work without meal and rest periods, but one hour is automatically subtracted from their pay each day for a meal period, regardless of whether a

1 one hour lunch is taken or not. This cavalier disregard for drivers' rights is not permissible and
2 clearly warrants class certification. (See e.g. Linder v. Thrifty Oil Co. (2000) 23 Cal.4th 429, 446
3 ("Linder") [emphasizing that concerns over wrongful retention of benefits by defendants and
4 thwarting continued wrong-doing with "impunity" outweighs concerns over management of class
5 action suits].)

6 The danger of retaliation and intimidation is also present. As there are class members
7 presently employed by AB Trucking, individual drivers may be reluctant to step forward and file a
8 separate suit to enforce their rights. (Cf. Bell, supra, at p. 745 ["For current employees, a lawsuit
9 means challenging an employer in a context that may be perceived as jeopardizing job security"];
10 Linder, supra, at p. 446.) In addition, denial of class treatment could very likely mean that AB
11 Trucking will benefit from its ill-gotten gains. (See Daar v. Yellow Cab Co. (1967) 67 Cal.2d 695, 12 715 [finding that "absent a class suit, defendant will retain the benefits from its alleged wrongs."])
13 The importance of class actions as a means of Labor Code enforcement, particularly claims
14 relating to the payment of minimum wage and overtime compensation is a reoccurring statement of 15 California Courts.<sup>11</sup> Any doubt as to whether a class action is appropriate should be resolved in 16 favor of certification.<sup>12</sup> (See Richmond v. Dart Industries, Inc. ["Dart"] (1981) 29 Cal.3d 462, 473
17 [emphasizing that, so long as class members' rights are protected, class certifications should not be 18 denied].)

19 B. THIS CASE SATISFIES ALL THE REQUIREMENTS FOR CLASS
20 CERTIFICATION

21 Code of Civil Procedure section 382 authorizes class action suits when the question is one

22 <sup>11</sup> A sample of representative cases in this area include: Gentry, supra, 42 Cal.4th 443; Morillion, supra, 22 Cal.4th at
23 p. 579 [class action proper for employees seeking compensation for all hours worked]; Ghazaryan, supra, 169
24 Cal.App.4th 1524; Bufile v. Dollar Financial Group, Inc. (2008) 162 Cal.App.4th 1193; Prince v. CLS Transportation,
25 Inc. (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 1320, 1329; Parris v. Superior Court (2003) 109 Cal.App.4th 285; Bell, supra, 87
26 Cal.App.4th 805; Madera Police Officers Assn. v. City of Madera (1984) 36 Cal.3d 403; see also Arias v. Superior
27 Court (2009) 46 Cal.4th 969, 986 [Labor Code section 2699 et. seq. is to supplement enforcement of the Labor Code
28 which the state does not have adequate resources to enforce].)

26 <sup>12</sup> Reflecting the strong preference for class resolution of wage and hour claims, reported cases in which wage and 27 hour claims were certified for class treatment include not only those cases noted in footnote 11, but also Estrada v.
28 FedEx Ground Package System, Inc. (2007) 154 Cal.App.4th 1; Aguiar v. Cintas Corp. No. 2 (2006) 144 Cal.App.4th
121; Earley v. Superior Court (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 1420; Stephens v. Montgomery Ward & Co. ["Stephens"] (1987)

1 of a common or general interest of many persons, or when the parties are numerous, and it is
2 impracticable to bring them all before the court. (See Sav-on, supra, 34 Cal.4th at p. 326.) The
3 party seeking certification must establish the existence of both an ascertainable class and a well-
4 defined community of interest among the class members. (Lockheed Martin Corp. v. Superior
5 Court (2003) 29 Cal.4th 1096, 1104.) To establish the requisite community of interest, the 6 proponent of certification must show “(1) predominant common questions of law or fact; (2) class
7 representatives with claims or defenses typical of the class; and (3) class representatives who can
8 adequately represent the class.” (Id., citations omitted.) In light of these well-established
9 principles, class wide treatment of this wage and hour suit is appropriate under section 382 and California case law.

10 1. The putative class is ascertainable and numerous.

11 In determining whether a class is ascertainable, courts “examine the class definition, the 12 size of the class, and the means of identifying class members.” (Reyes v. Board of Supervisors
13 (1987) 196 Cal.App.3d 1263, 1274.) As stated above, five classes are readily defined as the (1) All
14 Hours Worked, (2) Misclassified or No Wages Received, (3) Overtime, (4) Living Wage and (5)
15 Meal and Rest Period Classes. Identification of the class members will be readily accomplished
16 through AB Trucking’s personnel records, including wage statements and other payroll records.
17 (See, e.g., Vasquez, supra, at p. 811 [names and addresses of class members may be ascertained
18 from defendant’s books]; Rose, supra, 126 Cal.App.3d at p. 932 [finding that identity of class is 19 easily available through defendant’s departmental records].) Code of Civil Procedure section 382 20 states that there must be “many” class members, a requirement that is “construed liberally.” (Rose,
21 supra, 126 Cal.App.3d at p. 934 [finding that 42 individuals is sufficient for class certification]; see 22 also Collins v. Roca (1972) 7 Cal.3d 232 [upholding class action with 35 class members].) The 23 potential class here consists of over fifty drivers, more than justifying class treatment.

24 2. Common questions of law and fact predominate.

25 To satisfy the community of interest requirement, common questions of law or fact must 26 predominate over questions affecting individuals. (Washington Mutual Bank v. Superior Court

27
28 193 Cal.App.3d 411 (employment discrimination); Rose v. City of Hayward [“Rose”] (1981) 126 Cal.App.3d 926; and
Los Angeles Fire & Police Protective League v. City of Los Angeles (1972) 23 Cal.App.3d 67.

1 (Briseno) (2001) 24 Cal.4th 906, 913.) Common issues need only predominate such that they
2 would be “the principal issues in any individual action, both in terms of time to be expended in
3 their proof and of their importance.” (Karp, supra, 4 Cal.3d at p. 810.) Class certification does not
4 require that class members have uniform or identical claims. (Sav-on, supra, 34 Cal.4th at p. 338;
5 see also Classen v. Weller [“Classen”] (1983) 145 Cal.App.3d 27, 46 [noting that it has never been
6 the law in California that class representatives and class members share identical interests].) In 7 Medrazo v. Honda of North Hollywood [“Medrazo”] (2008) 166 Cal.App.4th 89, 99-100, the court
8 indicated “predominance is a comparative concept . . . individual issues do not render class
9 certification inappropriate so long as such issues may effectively be managed.”

10 California courts have frequently found that common issues predominate in employment
11 cases where workers are similarly situated in terms of job duties and are subject to standardized
12 policies by employers. (See, e.g., Sav-on, supra, 34 Cal.4th at p. 325 [granting class action
13 certification where employer had a standardized policy of misclassifying managers as exempt
14 employees so as to avoid overtime payments]; Bell, supra, 115 Cal.App.4th 715 [affirming class
15 certification for former and current insurance representatives in suit against company for unpaid
16 overtime compensation]; Stephens, supra, 193 Cal.App.3d at pp. 420-421 [class action appropriate
17 where employer’s centralized personnel practices overcame fact that each store functioned
18 independently].)

19 a) As drivers worked under the same institutional practices, supervision
20 and management control, common questions of fact predominate.

21 Trial of the class members’ claims will require presentation of an extensive and 22 overwhelmingly common factual record. Indisputably, all putative class members work or have 23 worked under the same terms and conditions of employment.

- 24 • All class members were or are truck drivers working out of a single facility.
- 25 • All drivers perform essentially the same job duties, making deliveries and picking
26 up containers from the Port of Oakland facility and/or loading and unloading trucks
27 at the Port of Oakland.
- 28 • All drivers report to the same small group of three supervisors, most directly to the

1
2
3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
26
27
28 dispatcher and import manager who supervise the drivers on a daily basis. (Exh. B at 16:4-17:16.)

- All drivers were at all times under the control and direction of AB Trucking President, William Aboudi. (Exh. B at 14:14-15:17.)
- No written policy on meal or rest periods exists or was ever provided to drivers. (Duncan Decl. ¶ 8 and Exh. B at 116:13-15; 99:14-100:13.)
- Regardless of any individual drivers' route assignments, all drivers are subject to the same treatment, or institutional practices, with regard to meal and rest periods.
- Regardless of any individual drivers' route assignments, all drivers are paid based on the same time keeping and payroll system. (Exh. B at 171:24-173:7; 180:4-21; 189:6-13; Exh. 2-4.)
- Defendant follows a payroll policy and practice applicable to all drivers of automatically deducting one hour from each drivers' shift reported time for a meal period. (Exh. C at 35:10-36:17, 60:8-61:6; Exh. B at Exh. 2, 16.)
- Defendant does not inform drivers that they are entitled and required to take a 30-minute off-duty meal break no later than five hours after beginning their shifts.
- All drivers missed most or all of the meal breaks to which they were entitled. Many drivers ate while driving their trucks.
- Defendant uses the same payroll processing system for all the drivers and produces earnings statements that are identical in form. (Exh. C at 8:12-9:4; 9:16-10:3, 10:22-11:9, 12:6-12; Exh. B at Exh. 2-4.)
- All drivers used the same timecard system for recording hours worked. (Exh. B at Exh. 2-4.)
- Defendant's time keeping system does not provide for a place for drivers to record their meal periods each shift. (Exh. B at Exh. 2-4.)
- Defendant has no record of meal periods taken by drivers.
- All drivers are subject to Defendant's policy of not compensating hours worked over eight-in-a-day and forty-in-a-week, at a time-and-one-half rate. (Exh. B at 119:20-120:4; Exh. C at 19:10-15.)
- Defendants did not provide drivers classified as "trainees" with compensation. (Exh. B at 138:17-24; 142:23-143:23.)

1 For all claims in this case, there is an extensive common nucleus of operative facts. A
2 showing of institutional practices is sufficient to show common questions of fact predominate: “As
3 the court explained, Prince, the plaintiff, had alleged ‘institutional practices by CLS that affected
4 all of the members of the potential class in the same manner, and it appears from the complaint that
5 all liability issues can be determined on a class-wide basis. At this stage, no more is required.’”
6 (Ghazaryan, supra, 169 Cal.App.4th at p. 1537, quoting Prince, supra, 118 Cal.App.4th at pp.
7 1320, 1329; see also Rose, supra, 126 Cal.App.3d at p. 933.) Even in the Brinker, infra, line of 8 cases, which reason an employer is not required to “ensure” meal periods are taken, the court has 9 indicated that employers with a policy regarding meal and rest periods make an initial showing that
10 meal and rest periods are being provided in accordance with applicable law.<sup>13</sup> Here, no such policy
11 exists or existed and thus an initial showing is not made.

12 Defendant applies the same time-keeping and payroll system to all drivers. Drivers are all 13 under the control of the company’s president, Bill Aboudi. The fact that Defendant does not have
14 drivers’ meal periods recorded, does not provide a place on the drivers’ time cards to record meal
15 periods, and does not have any written policy regarding meal and rest periods, combined with 16 Defendant’s policy of deducting one hour for lunch automatically, shows the commonality in 17 Defendant’s treatment of drivers.

18 b) Questions of law predominate over individual questions.

19 Common legal issues predominate as Plaintiffs’ claims concern a uniform pattern of 20 statutory violations by AB Trucking. All putative class members are subject to the same
21 institutional practices by a single defendant giving rise to the legal claims in the Complaint. The 22 questions of whether Defendant paid drivers for the hours each driver performed job functions,
23 whether individuals in the “training” program are employees or can be unpaid, whether drivers
24 were entitled to overtime wages based on either (1) DOT not being applicable or (2) the spotter
25 exception, and whether the paystubs provided to drivers with each payment constitute adequate
26

27 <sup>13</sup> See White v. Starbucks Corp. (N.D.Cal. 2007) 497 F.Supp.2d 1080, 1089; Brown v. Federal Express
28 Corp. (C.D.Cal. 2008) 249 F.R.D. 580, 586.)

1 wage statements, must be determined in all cases.

2 The legal inquiry as to whether Defendant is a "Port-Assisted Business" such that it is
3 required to pay its employees the Living Wage as prescribed by the Oakland City Charter will be 4 identical in each case. Similarly, a determination as to whether the Defendant is covered by the 5 Oakland Municipal Code such that it owes wages to its employees at the rate prescribed by the 6 Living Wage Ordinance is a common legal question shared by all drivers that must be addressed to 7 make a determination in each claim.

8 Defendant's practice of no written policy regarding meal and rest periods similarly affects 9 all drivers, thus proving these claims will be dictated by common legal inquiries. Whether
10 Defendant provides any additional pay to cover missed rest breaks and whether its compensation
11 practices permit rest breaks "as a practical matter" (see Cicairos, supra, 133 Cal.App.4th at p. 963)
12 are questions common to all drivers. Whether liability exists for failure to keep records of meal
13 periods is a common question. Likewise, whether Defendant met its affirmative duties to provide 14 30-minute off-duty meal breaks and whether it made automatic deductions for meal periods from 15 each shift, are legal inquiries that will be similar for all putative class members.

16 c) This case involves common remedial issues; individualized damage
17 calculations do not defeat class certification.

18 As Defendant's actions are challenged on identical legal grounds for each member of the 19 putative class, the same types of remedial issues are implicated. For instance, common remedial
20 questions include: (1) whether AB Trucking is liable for failure to pay all hours worked in 21 violation of IWC Wage Order 9; (2) whether AB Trucking is liable for failure to pay any hours
22 worked (to employees misclassified as "trainees") in violation of Labor Code section 510 and IWC
23 Wage Order 9; (3) whether AB Trucking is liable for failure to pay overtime wages in violation of 24 Labor Code sections 510, 1194 and IWC Wage Order 9; (4) whether AB Trucking is liable for 25 failure to pay the Living Wage for Port Assisted Businesses under the Oakland City Charter; (5)
26 whether AB Trucking is liable for failure to pay the Oakland Living Wage pursuant to the Oakland
27 Living Wage Ordinance; (6) whether AB Trucking is liable for an hour of pay for each missed
28 meal period in violation of Labor Code section 512 and IWC Wage Order 9; and (7) whether AB

1 Trucking is liable for an hour of pay for each missed rest break in violation of the IWC Wage
2 Order 9.

3 The common questions of fact and law described above apply to all drivers. The only
4 question involving individual treatment is the calculation of how much is owed to each class
5 member. Where common issues predominate, the potential need for individual damage
6 computations does not defeat class treatment. (Sav-on, supra, 34 Cal.4th at p. 328.) A case may 7 proceed as a class action “so long as each class member will not be required to litigate numerous 8 and substantial issues to establish his individual right to recover.” (Id. at p. 811; see also Karp,
9 supra, 4 Cal.3d at p. 815 [holding the need of each class member to establish individual damages
10 “does not preclude the maintenance of the suit as a class action”]; Bell, supra, 115 Cal.App.4th at 11 p. 744 [upholding class treatment of a wage and hour case even where individual determination of 12 damages was necessary].) Any individual issues that may arise in this case pale in comparison to 13 the weight presented by the common questions of law and fact.

14 3. Plaintiffs’ claims are typical of the proposed class members’ claims.

15 A class representative’s claim is typical if it arises from the same event, practice or course
16 of conduct that gives rise to the claims of other class members, and if his or her claims are based
17 on the same legal theory. (See generally Dart, supra) Typicality requires that class representatives
18 be similarly situated to the class members they seek to represent. (B.W.I. Custom Kitchen v.
19 Owens-Illinois, Inc. (1987) 191 Cal.App.3d 1341, 1347.) It is not necessary that the 20 representatives’ interests be identical to the other class members’ interests. (Id. at pp. 1347, 1350-
21 1353; see also Classen, supra, 145 Cal.App.3d at 46 [“it has never been the law in California that 22 the class representative must have identical interests with the class members”] (emphasis in 23 original).) In fact, the Supreme Court has held that most differences amongst class members do
24 not defeat class certification. (Dart, supra, 29 Cal.3d at p. 473.)

25 The typicality requirement is meant to ensure that the class representative is able to 26 adequately represent the class and focus on common issues. (Medraza, supra, at p. 99 (citing 27 Fireside Bank v. Superior Court (2007) 40 Cal.4th 1069, 1091).) It is only when a defense unique

1 to the class representative will be a major focus of the litigation (id.), or when the class
2 representative's " 'interests are antagonistic to or in conflict with the objectives of those [s]he
3 purports to represent' " (Dart, supra, 29 Cal.3d at p. 470) that denial of class certification is
4 appropriate. But even then, the court should determine if it would be feasible to divide the class
5 into subclasses to eliminate the conflict and allow the class action to be maintained. (Id. at pp. 470-
6 471.)

7 As stated above, Plaintiffs and putative class members are truck drivers who performed job
8 functions for Defendant out of the Port of Oakland facility. Like the putative class members, 9 Plaintiffs worked out of the Port of Oakland, were under the control of Bill Aboudi, were 10 supervised by the same dispatcher, received assignments following the same protocol and 11 performed the same duties. All drivers used the same time card and time-keeping system. Drivers
12 received paystubs issued through the same payroll processing system and all claims for pay were 13 processed through the same system. Plaintiffs' claims, as class members' claims, arise from 14 Defendant's consistent failure to pay all and/or any wages at the applicable rate for all hours
15 worked at the appropriate wage rate, failure to pay overtime and provide drivers with meal and 16 paid rest breaks. As a result, Plaintiffs' claims mirror those of the class members.

17 This case will turn on whether Defendant provided breaks and compensation to drivers in 18 accordance with the laws of the state. As Plaintiffs prove their claims, they will necessarily prove 19 the claims of all the class members. For instance, if Plaintiffs demonstrate that AB Trucking
20 systematically denied them 30-minute, off-duty meal periods, then Plaintiffs will demonstrate 21 through the common payroll deduction system that these meal periods were also denied to absent
22 class members. In showing that AB Trucking misclassified drivers as "trainees" even though they 23 were suffered and permitted to work, Plaintiffs will establish that AB Trucking has failed to 24 compensate "trainees" at any wage rate. The inquiry into the application of the Oakland Living
25 Wage is a legal question common to all drivers. Plaintiffs' claims are overwhelmingly typical of 26 the putative class members' claims, further justifying class treatment of this case.

27 There may be variations in drivers' execution of their duties, such as different routes

1 driven. However, these differences are immaterial to the claims here as they have no effect on the
2 uniform application of AB Trucking's payroll policies and meal and rest break practices. There
3 may also be variations in that some drivers may have taken some breaks of varying lengths at 4 varying times and locations. Again, these considerations are only relevant in the calculation of 5 damages; they are not pertinent to determining the common issues presented in the liability phase
6 of this case.<sup>14</sup>

7
8 4. Plaintiffs and their counsel will fairly and adequately represent the putative
9 class.

10 Adequacy of representation is met where plaintiffs' interests are not antagonistic to those of 11 the class, plaintiffs will vigorously prosecute class claims, and plaintiffs are represented by 12 qualified counsel. (See McGhee v. Bank of America (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 442, 450; Cal Pak
13 Delivery, Inc. v. United Parcel Serv. (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 1, 12.)

14 Plaintiffs are more than adequate representatives of the class as they share the interests of 15 the class and have pursued those interests vigorously. (Duncan Decl. ¶ 15; Exh. D; Exh. E) In 16 addition, class members are adequately represented by Plaintiffs' attorneys who have substantial
17 experience litigating wage and hour class action lawsuits. (Duncan Decl., ¶ 10-13 and Exh. J.)
18 Plaintiffs' attorneys are well-qualified and experienced, having successfully handled similar suits.
19 (Duncan Decl., ¶ 10-12.) Moreover, Plaintiffs' counsel has vigorously pursued this case and will
20 more than adequately represent the Plaintiffs and the class members. (Duncan Decl., ¶ 12.)

21 V. CONCLUSION

22 Having met each of the requirements for certification under Code of Civil Procedure
23 section 382, Plaintiffs respectfully request that the Court certify this case as a class action and 24 certify Plaintiffs and their counsel as representatives of the three classes as defined above.

25 Dated: December 14, 2009

WEINBERG, ROGER & ROSENFELD

26 By:
27 CAREN P. SENCER
28 Attorneys for Plaintiffs

<sup>14</sup> See Classen, supra, 145 Cal.App.3d at p. 46 ["[A] class action is not inappropriate simply because each member of the class may at some point be required to make an individual showing as to his or her eligibility for recovery or as to the amount of his or her damages."]; see also Wershba v. Apple Computer, Inc. (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 224, 238 ["Differences in individual class members' proof of damages is not fatal to class certification."].